

JOB OPPORTUNITY/IMMEDIATE OPENING

ALAMEDA COUNTY RESOURCE CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Qualified / Certified Biologist

$ 59,928-$ 67,318

The Alameda County Resource Conservation District (RCD) is a special district that works to implement and enhance local conservation efforts on private and public lands in Alameda County.

Located in Livermore, CA, we partner with land owners and land managers, local organizations, government agencies and other community and stakeholder groups to enhance and restore natural resources by providing education programs, technical assistance, project management and coordination. The District works in close partnership with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) as the Conservation Partnership.

We are seeking a committed, multi-talented and energetic person to join our team in a Resource Conservationist II position, working on conservation-oriented project management. This individual would function as the District's qualified biologist.

The ideal candidate will possess:

- Strong technical skills – including project management, development & permitting
- Experience working with public and private landowners and managers, government agencies, & regulatory agencies
- Construction & contractor oversight experience
- Identification skills for common California native & invasive species (plant and animal), with specific knowledge of species of importance in Alameda County
- Field monitoring design & experience
- Grant writing experience

Strong writing skills are critical to this position, as is experience with budget development & management. Agriculture, ranching, rangeland, watershed and conservation planning & management knowledge are very important. Considerable time will be spent in the field during peak project periods.

Bachelor's Degree required. Master's Degree preferred.

To learn more about the position, please e-mail Katherine Boxer, Executive Officer at katherine.boxer@acr.cd.org

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, resume and references by June 16, 2017 to hr@acr.cd.org Interviews will be scheduled beginning the last week of June.

We urge our colleagues and partners to help us get the word out to qualified candidates.
